

AMONG THE EXCHANGES
OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

May Divide Kootenai County.
Both Sandpoint and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, are reported to be desirous of distinction of becoming county seats. Kootenai county, in which both are located, and of which Rath- burn is the present seat, is a very large county, extending along the Idaho side of the panhandle of the state to the boundary.
The people of Sandpoint are report- ing to be moving for a division of the county and the formation of a new county to include the extreme north- west part of Shoshone county also, and make Sandpoint the county seat.
The people of Coeur d'Alene, it is said, are willing that a division of the county should be made, but don't like the idea of being obliged to con- sider the government of the county. Therefore it is now proposed to di- vide the county into three, thus giving each place a court house and a set of officers.—Boise Capital News.

Making No Promises.
Governor-elect Frank R. Gooding is in the city looking for matters which he will have to deal with in his forthcoming message to the legislature, and making ar- rangements to locate his family here during his term of office. Mr. Good- ing declined to say anything about his recommendations, but he would make no announcement until he had been inaugurated govern- or. He will bring his family here later part of next week, and ex- pects to find a house today in which to locate them.—Boise Capital News.

Poisoned 10,000 Jackrabbits.
To save his crops, Mat McFall of Shoshone has had to fight the jack- rabbit war. After having lost 60 acres of alfalfa from this pest, be- fore other crops and many fruit trees, McFall concluded it was time to do something. So three years ago he set two loads of nice, clean alfalfa traps and scattered them over his field, using previously invested in $20 worth of strychnine. He dissolved the poison in hot water, using one ounce to five gallons of water. This preparation he sprinkled over the alfalfa, just enough to moisten it. The result was he found the morning after the first application, 5000 dead rab- bits. This was followed up until 19,000 or more jackrabbits were laid out. He said previous to that time his farm was literally alive with the pests.

The same year Hon. Frank Gooding captured 7000 of them in one day with an organized drive. Of course, where poison is used in this way, they must be kept so that domestic animals cannot get at it.—Gem State Rural.

Weather in the Potlatch.
The weather on Big Potlatch ridge continues very mild, and the recent rains, together with a snow to the depth of two or three inches, which soon melted and soaked into the earth, has put the ground in the best condition for plowing that the fall and winter this far have furnished. So the farmers are plowing here in full force, the latter part of Decem- ber, some of whom are taking their large boys out of school to follow the plow.—Lewiston Tribune.

Sheep and Wool in Crook.
Sheepmen of this vicinity have had cause to rejoice in the fine weather which has prevailed up to this time. Not within their recollection have sheep been in such fine condition at this season of the year, and with plenty of hay on hand to feed the stock during almost any kind of a spell of weather that might come now, they have no apprehensions for the safety of their flocks during this winter.—Ashwood Prospector.

Football at The Dalles.
Unless all plans fall we will see a good game of football Monday after- noon next, when the Heppner team will meet our high school team in a return game. There is also talk of a game with the Portland Y. M. C. A. on the following Monday, January 2, which will be the last game of the season.—The Dalles Chronicle.

Two Banks at Condon.
Condon is to have two new banks. One is to be conducted by local men and local capital. Organization has not been perfected, but it is quite well settled that S. B. Barker will be at its head, which will make it quite strong financially. Mr. Barker is the largest taxpayer in the county, and is known as a careful and shrewd business man. This will make the second bank in prospect for this place as Lord & Co. of Arlington, have given out that they will erect a brick building and open another in the spring.

The coming of the railroad from Arlington has caused the unusual prosperity. Now that right of way has been secured, work is being pushed as fast as possible during the pre- vailing fine weather.—Condon Globe.
